This was done by some one on the staff and illustrates in a funny way the hardships that one has to contend with in this most inhospitable country.

Greetings from an old, old Land,
The warmest place on Earth;
Where the fame of dear old England,
Has just been given birth.

Where England's sons are fighting,
Her honour to uphold;
And earning for her glory,
By deeds both brave and bold.

From sunbaked Mesopotamia,
I send these wishes true,
Good Luck and a jolly Christmas
With all good things for you.

And when the Old Year waneeth,
May the New one to you be
A fount of Health and Happiness,
Health and Prosperity.

William J. Sidwell.
